

UNCOVER PLOT TO KILL CZAR

(Special from United Press.)
San Remo, Italy, Oct. 18.—The police have uncovered what they believe to be a plot to assassinate Czar Nicholas of Russia on his coming visit to Italy. Three Russians were arrested today in connection with the suspected plot and Russian secret service agents who have swarmed all over Italy since the Czar's visit was first projected are looking up the antecedents of the trio. The Russians came to San Remo some three months ago and have been under surveillance ever since. The fact that the three started for Racconigi where the Czar and King Victor Emmanuel are to meet, causing their arrest.

NEW HAVEN WOMAN NEARLY 80 YEARS DEAD FROM GAS

(Special from United Press.)
New Haven, Oct. 18.—Bridget Kraemer, nearly 80 years old, a resident of this city for many years, was found dead in bed this morning at her home in Houston street with the room filled with illuminating gas. The medical examiner pronounced the case accidental.

SON ROBS FATHER OF $400 ROLL

Detective George Fox arrested Frank McKoon, at the railroad station, yesterday noon. Over $400 was in McKoon's pocket. He had taken the money from the inside pocket of his father's vest, yesterday. The young man handed over the sum to the detective and was released. The father did not wish to prosecute his son.

MISS WALKER IN SHIPWRECK

South Norwalk Woman and Nephew Caught in Heavy Storm

Norwalk, Oct. 18.—Miss Emma F. Walker of Cudlip street, Rowayton, the well known bookkeeper at the South Norwalk Sentinel office, together with her nephew, Arthur Walker, experienced a most thrilling sail on the Sound and all but figured in a real shipwreck last evening when they got caught in the windstorm which swept the Sound and found that their little craft, the "U and I" could not weather the waves long enough to make Rowayton harbor. Miss Walker, although she is a good sailor, all but lost her nerve, but fortunately kept her head until the little launch had skirted Roton Point and a launching was effected on South Beach. Miss Walker had succeeded in beaching her craft but the waves lifted the launch and threw it on the rocks, knocking three holes in the bottom of the boat which rapidly filled with water. Miss Walker's cries for assistance were heard by Marshall Andrews, George Van Alstine and Charles Evans who rescued her.

SHOT TO KILL THE MAN SUSPECTED OF WRECKING HIS HOME

of the bullet stunned Eckersol and caused him to lie still after he fell to the floor. Najmami thereupon thinking him dead turned the revolver upon himself. This tragedy created intense excitement among the Hungarian residents of the neighborhood. In fact the family affairs of the dead man have been the cause of much gossip in the community for several months past. A suit for $1,000 for slander, against Charles Keyes, brought by the dead man's wife, is now pending before the Superior court. In her complaint Mrs. Najmami alleges that Keyes has advised her of improper conduct with Eckersol at Fairfield beach. The dead man was a tailor and presser employed in New York. He was away from home much of the time. In her suit for slander Mrs. Najmami alleges that during her husband's absence she had gone bathing at Fairfield beach with Eckersol. She alleges that Keyes had said that she dressed and undressed in the same bathing house with Eckersol. Keyes is also alleged to have said that the couple would be refused admission at the bath houses if they applied again. This story has preyed on Najmami's mind and wife and he has frequently had words over it. Saturday evening he returned from New York and the subject was again brought up. In the end he fell upon his wife and assaulted her. The wife finally managed to escape the clutches of her enraged husband and to flee from the house. With her youngest child, a boy of eleven, she ran to the home of Leonard Kovalski, a lively man. There she spent the night. Najmami was later arrested for the assault and jailed in Bridgeport. The next morning, James Cummings he obtained bail and his trial had been set for this afternoon at the Fairfield town court. In the meantime his wife returned to her home on the Danbury road. Najmami came home this morning and it is said attempted to effect a reconciliation with her wife. According to the stories told by the neighbors, she repulsed his advances and told him that because of the beating he had given her that she intended to begin proceedings for a divorce. Najmami pleaded with her in vain. Then he left the house and went to the school which his wife had attended to begin proceedings. The scholars were out to recess. Najmami called them to him, kissed them and told them he intended to kill himself. Then he went back home. It was a curious trick of fate which sent Eckersol directly into the path of Najmami, for the would-be murderer had scarcely seated himself in his own house and glanced across the street when his eye fell on the man he held responsible for all his troubles. Instantly he had formed his resolve and with firm step he left the house and crossed the street bent on obtaining satisfaction for all his troubles. He had wronged him. That he did not fully carry out his purpose was no fault of his own. In Fairfield the dead man was held in high esteem and those who knew him best attribute his rash act to the fact that his mind had long been unsettled by overwork. He was ambitious to secure a competence which would provide for himself and his wife in their old age and which would guarantee his boys a good education. With this purpose in view he worked his little farm alone besides working at his trade in New York. He said that his weekly wage averaged between $18 and $20. During the summer months he would rise, often as early as three in the morning, to work on his little farm. Then he would take the earliest train from New York. Returning late at night, he would find his wife milking cows and do other necessary chores before retiring. His work about the farm and his duties in New York kept him so busy that he had little time to give to his wife and family except on Sundays. Lately this hard work began to tell on him and he was given to periods of irritability during which it is said he roundly scolded his wife and children for trivial causes. He was about 42 years old and had lived in this country about twenty years. He is said to have been the youngest son of a prominent Hungarian family. Eckersol is also married and has three children. His home is within a stone's throw of that of Najmami and the families of both visited each other and the children played together. The tragic affair cast a gloom over the whole Hungarian section. It was said at the hospital this afternoon that Eckersol's condition is very critical. The bullet entered the left ear and taking a downward course lodged in the right side of the neck.

WRIGHT'S FLIGHTS FOR HIS SIGNAL CORPS PUPILS

(Special from United Press.)
Washington, Oct. 18.—Wright resumed his instruction of his signal corps pupils in the art of aviation at College Park to-day when he made three flights with a total of 38 miles in the air before 8 o'clock. One of the trips was the longest he has ever made in the nation's capital, 18 minutes, 28 seconds. Lieutenant Wright was with him as a passenger on this flight and Lieutenant Humphreys on the other ones.

CLIMAX OF EFFORTS TO SAVE CHINAMEN

(Special from United Press.)
Boston, Oct. 18.—The climax of the efforts being made by the wife and son of Wary Charles, the Americanized Chinese, convicted of connection with Tong murders and sentenced to die, to save both his life and that of his son, was today when Attorney Bartlett and Pratt will present new evidence to Governor Draper. Both Charles and Guy were sentenced to die during this week, but Governor Draper has granted a 60 day reprieve. To save her husband, Mrs. Charles, who is white, and her son, a New York policeman, have been indefatigable in their efforts, seconded by large sums of money contributed by the police force of New York. Charles, in the State prison here, is declared to be suffering keenly, but Guy, a true Oriental, accepts the situation stoically.

TWO MILITANT ENGLISH SUFFRAGISTS WHO COME TO AID CAUSE IN AMERICA

All American woman suffragists who are really interested in the cause are looking forward to the coming of Mrs. Emmeline G. Pankhurst, the militant English suffragette, who is to lecture and otherwise spread the propaganda in the United States and Canada. Mrs. Pankhurst is militant in every sense of the term. She is a brawny woman of large mold, a born leader and a fighter with powers of oratory that an stump speaker would be proud to possess. Her able-second and lieutenant is her daughter, Christabel, who bears the distinction of being one of the first women sent to prison in England for the cause of equal suffrage. The young woman was taken to jail six years ago for asking Sir Edward Grey what he intended to do about the suffrage movement. Mrs. Pankhurst herself was sent to jail for issuing the famous handbill calling upon her followers to rush the house of commons. Mrs. Pankhurst will preside at a big suffrage meeting in Brooklyn, after which she will go to Troy to the suffrage convention. Then she probably will tour the country.

DAN O'NEIL MAY BUY BALL TEAM Annual Meeting Today of Connecticut League

(Special from United Press.)
Springfield, Mass., Oct. 18.—The annual meeting of the Connecticut Baseball League was held here to-day. President W. J. Tracy was in the chair. The pennant for last season was awarded formally to the Hartford team. The most important question before the meeting is that of the salary limit.

EIGHT COMPANIES RUSH TO FIRE IN MITCHELL GARAGE

A car washer stepped on a match on the floor of the Mitchell garage in Cannon street, near Broad street, and started a fire. Eight fire engine companies rushed through the center of the city. The floor of the garage was soaked with oil and the fire spread to a can of gasoline and a brand new Mitchell touring car was soon ablaze. Manager Carpenter called in the fire department and the fire was put out. The car was a total loss. The garage was insured for $10,000. The fire was caused by a match falling on the floor of the garage. The fire spread to a can of gasoline and a brand new Mitchell touring car was soon ablaze. The garage was insured for $10,000. ## Auto Crash Kills Wealthy Woman

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Bruce Price, one of the wealthiest residents of Tuxedo Park, was instantly killed and Mrs. Charles J. Couther was badly injured, sustaining a broken arm and a serious shock, in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon on the road from Tuxedo to Arden. The other occupants of the car, Mrs. Couther's twelve-year-old son, Charles J. Couther, Jr., and the chauffeur, were only slightly hurt.

BANKERS ARRESTED IN FORGERY CASE

(Special from United Press.)
Boston, Oct. 18.—Charles F. Cummings and Edward A. Mead, of the American Banking Company with offices at 25 Milk street, were arrested to-day on charges in connection with the South Framingham note forgery case by which the town has discovered an alleged forged note of $25,000 each and as a result of which it is said Town Treasurer Lombard is now raving in delirium. Both men were taken to the police station and are being held pending further arrangement, it being alleged that their participation in the affair took place in that jurisdiction.

WIFE OF 21 YEARS SEEKS A DIVORCE

Harriet Haggood Owen of Stamford has brought suit for divorce against George A. Owen of this city, charging desertion. Owen is a florist. They were married Sept. 28, 1888. They have three children. The oldest is 20. The petitioner desires a change of name and the custody of the children.

Weather Indications

(Special from United Press.)
New Haven, Oct. 18.—Forecast: Cloudy and unsettled weather with occasional showers. A trough of low pressure extending northeastward from New Jersey is producing cloudy and rainy weather in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the lower portion of the lake region and the New Jersey coast. An area of very high pressure is centered over South Dakota. It is producing cool, pleasant weather in the northern sections west of the Mississippi river. Conditions favor for this vicinity somewhat cloudy and unsettled weather with light rain.

COMTE D'LAMBERT CIRCLES PARIS IN WRIGHT BI-PLANE

(Special from United Press.)
Juvisy, France, Oct. 18.—Comte D'Alambert, in his Wright bi-plane, circled the outskirts of Paris from the Juvisy Aerodrome today, flying a distance of seventy kilometers. He was up one hour and returned to the aerodrome landing directly in front of the grand stand.

BOTH BOYS SAVED

Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Mich., writes: "Three bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of a severe cough, and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar. Nothing else is as safe and certain in result." F. B. Hill and George Schneider were appointed appraisers.

THE STOCK MARKET

(Watson, Alpers & Co.)
The foreign political situation and the action of money lenders are the elements that still exist as restraints upon the resumption of a sustained upward movement. In the absence of unfavorable developments in these directions, the improvement should be further and if these phases should turn a positive gratifying side to speculation, the prospects would favor the market to pursue.

This is biggest curtain- news we have had in a long time.

As you read this, all has been made ready for greatest curtain-selling the store has ever seen. The Autumn sale of curtains by lot is to commence Tuesday morning. It will be the biggest lot sale that has ever been held. That is because we have had the biggest lace-curtain business this season we have ever had. That meant the creating of more lots of two or three or four pairs.

Not only are there more lots but better. So brisk has been the business that curtains have come and gone with wondrous speed. Most of these lots are as fresh as curtains that have been in the store but a week or so. In only a few cases is the single curtain which has been used as a sample, soiled or much-rumpled. And there is a big saving on every lot.

Beside the lots of curtains (which are sold only unbroken and as listed here) there are other curtain values far above the usual.

Cable net curtains in seven attractive patterns, flat designs with pearl edging and Renaissance braid, 2½ yards long, white or Arabian, worth $3 pair, —$2.

Tucked muslin curtains, finished with ruffle, usually sold at 39c pair, —32c.

Sash lace for curtains, Arabian or white, tasteful designs, worth 18c yd., —12½c.

Striped sash muslin, crisp and nice and of good patterns, usually sold at 10c yd., —8c.

Lots are as follows—but each one in the list represents from one to four lots:—

Nottingham curtains

THE HOWLAND DRY GOODS CO.

THE DEER'S HORN.

They Present All the Phenomena of Animal and Vegetable Growth.

Why and how is the deer so peculiarly unlike any other of the bovine race, the horn differing so materially from all the horns of cattle in its composition, growth, maturity and decline? It presents all the phenomena of animal and vegetable growth. It sprouts from the brain without any prolongation of the frontal bone. It rises and branches through the sinews and takes root on the bone, growing the same as a vegetable. It is nourished by and secretes albumen upon the surface and disposes of the fibrin the same as an animal.

It is clothed with a skin and hairy coat very different from those on the rest of the body. This covering and hair possess a property unknown in other animal bodies—that of being a styptic to stanch its own blood when wounded. It carries marks of the age on the buck by putting out an extra branch each year, which shows an additional phase each year to production. And this horn does not exist in the female. So this difference is more distinctly marked than in any other class of animals. Again, the horn possesses properties unknown in any other animal matter. It is entirely inodorous, capable of resisting putrefaction and almost impervious to the effects of the atmosphere.

And still water at 300 degrees F. will dissolve these horns readily, even though they are not soluble in alcohol and resist the action of acids and alkalis. It is the only vegetable animal substance that we know of that does not perpetuate itself by procreation. The male and the female are sustained by the same nutrition and elements, and only the male produces horns. This phenomenon is quite as much of a curiosity as the absence of the horn in the buck after shedding. Exchange.

Japs' Flying Visit To New Haven

The distinguished party of Japanese who are to be the guests of the Chamber of Commerce will arrive in New Haven early Friday morning. President Ullman of the Chamber, the directors of the Chamber, and Mayor Martin will meet the party at the Union depot at 8:30 o'clock. President Hadley of Yale and Prof. Asakawa of Yale will also be of the reception party. The visitors will number sixty, and will leave the Elm City at 11 o'clock for Providence.

SAT IN THE SENATE.

An Outsider Who Innocently Made Himself at Home.

The American people once elected a tailor to the presidency, and doubtless many manipulators of the shears and goose have sat in the seats of the mighty by election, but only once did a tailor make himself at home on the floor of the United States senate when he had no constituency to represent.

The tailor was Hermann Moritz Riedel of Philadelphia, who visited Washington in April, 1898, to attend the exciting scenes during the impeachment proceedings against Andrew Johnson, a fellow craftsman. And this is the account of how he witnessed these proceedings as out-lished in the Washington Republican of that day:

"A good looking Teutonic friend of ours a day or two since made an earnest appeal to our Muggins for a ticket to the senate to listen to what was going forward at the impeachment trial. Muggins, as is his wont, in the kindness of his soul consented to furnish Teuton with the talismanic paste-board which effects the open sesame to the senate chamber and also assured our friend that he would accompany him to the gallery and find him an eligible seat. Muggins and Teuton started to work their way in, but Muggins was detained outside of the door for a few moments, and our German friend went on and passed the vigilant sentinels at the outer door and went directly to the entrance of the senate chamber and was admitted by the gentlemanly ushers under the belief probably that he was a member of congress and passed through the vestibule and took his seat in the first vacant chair and there remained during the entire session in the confident belief that he was entitled to the seat."

The descendants of Hermann Riedel are living in Washington now. The tailor, who was a "top notcher" at his trade, according to all accounts, died in 1877, having declined a pension serving as a marine during the civil war.—Washington Post

Forever Dry.

There is a youngster in college who combines the poetic instinct with a keen sense of humor. He is not a close student. In fact, he regards books as instruments of torture. One of the professors picked up a text book belonging to him the other day and found on the flyleaf this bit of verse, which no doubt expressed the student's opinion of it:

Should there be another flood
For refuge hither fly,
And should the whole world be submerged
This book would still be dry.
—Philadelphia Record.

A Suspicious Silence.

Howard was only twenty months older than the baby. He had somehow come to realize that Elwood, who was creeping, was more likely to be in mischief when quiet. One day he called to his mother with a great deal of anxiety in his little voice, "Mamma, I hear Elwood keeping still?"—Delineator.

Have courage, count. Father won't hurt you! Why, he told me only yesterday that if he had to pay so much for you he certainly wouldn't do anything to damage you.—Life.

Equality may be all right; but no human power can convert it into a fact.—Baltzer.
